Keene High School is the receiving school for the towns of Chesterfield, Harrisville, Keene, Marlborough, Marlow, Nelson, Stoddard, Surry, Westmoreland, and Winchester. Enrollment in grades 9 through 12 is 1,696 students. The average class size is approximately 22 students.

KHS is a comprehensive high school accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges which offers students a well-rounded academic program (approximately 195 course offerings) in a block format and numerous co-curricular (27 varsity teams and 38 clubs) activities. Advanced Placement courses are offered in the areas of English, world languages, math, social studies, art and science.

KHS now offers a Virtual High School program where students can take on-line courses not offered at KHS. Over the past five years, approximately 70 percent of graduating seniors have pursued post-secondary education.

The staff at Keene High School has made a commitment to provide students opportunities to prepare them for the transition to higher education and the workforce. Efforts in this area have been greatly facilitated by partnerships with area businesses and industries.

Keene High School is the site of the Cheshire Career Center, one of 24 vocational schools in the state. The center, which recently completed a $6 million renovation, offers programs in business and office education, human services, and technology and trades to students from Keene, Fall Mountain, and Monadnock Regional high schools.

Student enrollment in Keene's five elementary schools (kindergarten through grade 5) is 1,172. Enrollments in the schools range from 329 students at Symonds School to 169 at Wheelock School. The average student-teacher ratio at the elementary level is 17:2.

Because the neighborhood school concept is very important to the community, each of Keene's five elementary schools is located in a different part of the city and serves the families that live in that area. This system has encouraged each school to develop its own individual character, but because each teaches the same subject areas and comparable skills, all Keene elementary school children enter the middle school (at grade 6) with a similar academic background.

Recent initiatives at the elementary level that have enhanced the learning environment for children include full-day kindergarten, an emphasis on the use of technology in the classroom, an Everyday Mathematics initiative, a core reading program, world language instruction, the Collins Writing Program, the re-introduction of the social curriculum, peer mediation, and after school programs.

Close collaboration with Keene State College and Antioch University New England for pre-service and teaching experiences, continued volunteer efforts and strong community support contribute to the success of Keene's elementary schools.

Each of the schools is committed to providing a quality educational program to each child in a positive and highly-motivating environment.

Keene Middle School

Principal: Dorothy Frazier, M. Ed.
e-mail: dfrazier@sau29.org

Approximately 653 students in grades 6 through 8 attend Keene Middle School (KMS). A staff of 71 certified professionals provide students with a balanced academic program and co-curricular opportunities.

KMS receives students from several sending towns — sixth, seventh and eighth graders from Keene, Surry and Stoddard, and seventh and eighth grade students from Marlow, Nelson and Harrisville.

KMS's staff demonstrates the strongest commitment to the middle school concept. This places an emphasis on positive student-teacher relationships and a responsiveness to the interests and needs (academic, social, and emotional) of young adolescents.

KMS practices include continual strengthening of a challenging curriculum, enrichment activities, small student advisory groups, instructional teams, and flexible scheduling to meet student needs.
